

Alexandra Back on the Silver Screen

Alexandra Dahlström is making a comeback.

After a few years out of the spotlight from Show Me Love, she will star in a new feature film.

For the script responds radio voice and author Sara Kadefors.

In October 1998, Lukas Moodysson's Show Me Love premiered. Nearly 900,000 Swedes saw Alexandra Dahlström and Rebecka Liljeberg form a young couple, and the two actresses became well-known faces in the country. Alexandra and Rebecka received sharing a Guldbagge for their efforts in February 1999. Afterwards, Alexandra has been featured in another feature film - Kjell Sundsvall's In Bed With Santa. She has, however, acted on stage at the Theatre Galeasen in Stockholm and the Royal Dramatic Theatre. Alexandra also worked as an assistant to Lukas Moodysson during the filming of Lilya 4-ever. But now it's in front of the camera once again for the 19-year-old. The film, for which Sara Kadefors has written the script, begins filming on September 1. The film is actress Tova Magnusson Norling's feature film debut as a director. Alexandra plays a young girl, Moa, who is one of many in a large group. She longs for a guy to get along with, but can't seem to find one. The film takes place over a few weeks in the young woman's life. The other actors are new blood according to a source for Expressen. Produced by Sandrew Metronome & Lena Rehnberg.
